Dear Frances,

'Scuse my dilatoriousness (look that up and learn how to spell it and find out what it means and they will give you as much credit as taking a course in shot-gunnery).

There is absolutely no news to tell you — unless it should be considered minor news that Miss Mary and I expect to be with you by 6:30 tomorrow, Friday, night. I am to make a speech before the Dental Association at Athens and attend their banquet. Miss Mary is going with me and expects to stop off and spend two or three hours with you while I am at the banquet and speechifying.

Love,

Dad
