Dear Frances,

No doubt, you are familiar with the "three sweetest words in the English language." Here are three which, I am sure, you will consider even sweeter:

"ENCLOSED FIND CASH."

Love,

Dad

P. S.

Following a feminine custom, I shall now start the real letter.

I note that you will be home Friday, November 6, and that we might possibly have the privilege of seeing you if we will look closely by the side of Crane's raccoon coat.

I heard about Mary sneezing this week and you put in a long distance call for all the kinsfolk to rush to her bedside. I hope that she doesn't develop a cough, because it might create pandemonium (whatever that is) in and around Athens and Atlanta.

Same signature as above.
